

GEORGETOWN COMMUNITY HOSPITAL

Georgetown, Kentucky

(Population: 25,600 • Service area: 81,000)

Welcome to a place where tradition and progress meet. Rich in agricultural heritage and rural lifestyle, Georgetown is one of the fastest growing areas in the state, and home to Georgetown College and Toyota's largest manufacturing facility outside Japan.

THE HOSPITAL

Georgetown Community Hospital is a 75-bed acute care facility with an award winning history of providing excellence in healthcare. Georgetown Community Hospital has been named a "Solucient 100 Top Hospital" three times in recent years, and recently ranked 6th in the "15 Best Places To Work in Kentucky" and 1st in the "Best Places for Women to Work in Kentucky" competitions. By continuing to add new medical services and to grow the number of specialist and primary care physicians, the hospital has experienced a record number of surgeries, admissions, outpatient procedures and ER visits. The hospital features a newly renovated ICU, Med/Surg Unit and 24-hour Emergency Services Department. State-of-the-art equipment includes: MRI, Lithotripsy, CT Scanner and Ultrasound. Medical services include: Allergy, Anesthesiology, Bariatric Surgery (100% Minimally Invasive), Cardiac Rehab/Cardiology, Dentistry, Dermatology, Gastroenterology, Hematology/Oncology, Family Practice, Gynecology, Internal Medicine, OB/GYN, Occupational Therapy, Ophthalmology, Orthopedic Surgery, Otolaryngology, Pathology, Pediatrics, Physical Therapy and Sports Medicine, Plastic Surgery, Podiatry, Radiation Oncology, Radiology and Urology. Surgical services include: Colon-Rectal, Gynecological, Orthopedic, Urology and Plastics. The hospital's Bariatric Center is the only 100% minimally invasive weight loss surgery program in the Greater Lexington area and was recently named a Top Five national program by Obesity Help magazine.

THE COMMUNITY

Highly noted for its historic homes and perhaps the best antique shopping in the state, Georgetown is also known as one of the state's fastest growing cities.

Located at the crossroads of I-75 and I-64, it is ideally located just 10 miles north of Lexington, the Horse Capital of the World. Two larger cities, Louisville and Cincinnati provide quick access to arts, entertainment, shopping and professional sports. Georgetown was founded by the Baptist minister Elijah Craig in 1790, best known for his world famous invention, bourbon whiskey. Today, Georgetown is proud to be the American hometown of Toyota's Camry, Solara and Avalon production facility as well as host for the Cincinnati Bengals' training camp, which is held each August at Georgetown College, a four-year liberal arts school. Additionally, the University of Kentucky, Transylvania University and Midway College are all located in the surrounding area.

Georgetown College

Elkhorn Creek

Royal Springs Park (left), downtown (right)

Distance to Major Cities

Lexington, KY	10 miles
Cincinnati, OH	62 miles
Louisville, KY	72 miles
Indianapolis, IN	190 miles

Local Points of Interest

- A Great Find – tour the many shops and stores for treasured antiques.
- Kentucky Horse Park – take a horse-drawn carriage tour, watch the parade of breeds and watch the work of a harness maker.
- Historic Elkhorn Creek – perfect for fishing, canoeing and rafting.

Canewood Golf Course

RECREATION

Georgetown is located in the heart of Kentucky's famed Bluegrass Region. This is horse country, and the area's back roads offer beautiful scenery with horse farms, Irish fieldstone fences and rolling fields of tobacco and cattle. Steeped in tradition and just 10 miles down the road in nearby Lexington, Keeneland Race Course attracts people from around the world for their yearly meets in April and October. At the Kentucky Horse Park, visitors can watch a harness maker at work, enjoy the parade of breeds, or take a horse-drawn carriage tour. Historic Elkhorn Creek offers world class canoeing and fishing. There are dozens of golf courses in the area, including Cherry Blossom and Canewood Golf Course.

